Epiphany – 6.1.94
(On the 6th November 1993, fr. O'Carroll and I gave the books (True Life in God) and his own in the hands of Pope John Paul II. He took them and blessed me.)
Two months later, today early in the morning I had a vision-dream.
The vision:
I saw very clearly the Pope in his white robe. He was standing opposite me, looking at me. It was like he and I knew well one another. A dining table, out of plastic was between us. I was studying his white robe. We did not exchange a word with each other. He then sat down at my table. I turned around to my right to offer him what I had for him. I offered him to eat a dessert. While he ate I watched him. Then, after he ate all, and having enjoyed it he got up to leave. I hurried up to accompany him to the door. I went by his right side and gave him a walking stick, (in my vision it belonged to him). The stick was not of wood

(On the 6th November 1993, Fr. O'Carroll and I gave the books (True Life in God) and his own in the hands of Pope John Paul II. He took them and blessed me.)
Two months later, today early in the morning I had a vision-dream.
The vision:
I saw very clearly the Pope in his white robe. He was standing opposite me, looking at me. It was like he and I knew well one another. A dining table, out of plastic was between us. I was studying his white robe. We did not exchange a word with each other. He then sat down at my table. I turned around to my right to offer him what I had for him. I offered him to eat a dessert. While he ate I watched him. Then, after he ate all, and having enjoyed it he got up to leave. I hurried up to accompany him to the door. I went by his right side and gave him a walking stick; (in my vision it belonged to him). The stick was not of wood but of some other material of very light colour. He took it and as he started to walk I noticed that he had difficulties even with the walking-stick. Immediately and without hesitation I took his right arm and pulled it around my neck and shoulders, reaching all around my neck to my left shoulder. He did not object but accepted this help. Then with my left arm I placed it around his back so as to lift him as much as possible on my left side and part of my back. I remember pulling his arm around my shoulders so much that it crossed my neck in front going from my right shoulder to the left one. In this way, his feet almost left the floor. When I had placed my left arm around him, my hand felt his back ribs and I was astonished thinking 'how thin he is, but no one could see'.

All the time the Pope did not object.
— In this vision I understood that the Pope also represents the Church. The Church is weak since apostasy is here, but the Messages help the Church.
